A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under the FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.ftc.gov/credit or write to: Consumer Response Center, Room 130-A, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20580.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment – or to take another adverse action against you – must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.
- You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your “file disclosure”). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:
 - a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;
 - you are the victim of identify theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
 - your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
 - you are on public assistance;
 - you are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.In addition, by September 2005 all consumers will be entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.ftc.gov/credit for additional information.
- You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit-worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.
- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.ftc.gov/credit for an explanation of dispute procedures.
- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.

- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.
- Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need -- usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.
- You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.ftc.gov/credit.
- You may limit "prescreened" offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited "prescreened" offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the lists these offers are based on. You may opt-out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-5-OPTOUT (1-888-567-8688).
- You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.
- Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.ftc.gov/credit.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. Federal enforcers are:

INFORMATION RELEASE AND AUTHORIZATION

In order to determine whether a candidate is suitable for a position, it is necessary to thoroughly review a candidate's complete employment background and references. All current and past employers may be contacted once a tentative offer of employment has been made or employment has been accepted. Many employers and references will not provide a candid response unless there is an authorization and release of liability statement. Please carefully review the following paragraphs and sign and date the form below.

I, _____, hereby authorize PharmaCare Services to contact any employer, law enforcement agency, state agency, institution or private information bureau that has any record or knowledge of my motor vehicle operation history, criminal history or employment-related history, in order to obtain or verify information on, but not limited to criminal, credit, driving, employment, and education. I hereby authorize past employers or affiliations to release any so acquired information to PharmaCare Services or its representatives. I hereby release PharmaCare Services, their officers, employees, and agents, from any and all liability arising from the results of any investigation and the preparation of any reports concerning myself or my background. I authorize the companies, schools, persons or entities given during the employment process, while employed, and during internal investigations, as references or past employers or affiliations to give any information regarding my employment, character, qualifications, certifications and licenses and hereby release said companies, schools, persons or entities from all liability for any damage for issuing this information. A favorable result may be a condition of employment or commencement of any employment duties where elements are job-related. A photographic copy of the authorization shall be as valid as the original. Permission is granted for information to be released by any state agency.

I waive any provision impeding the release of this information, and agree to provide any information necessary for the release of this information above and beyond that provided on the employment application.

I understand that there may be state and federal requirements as well as insurance and employment requirements that will require periodic checks of all the above-referenced sources. If employed, I further authorize periodic checks of all above referenced sources, as may be deemed necessary by employer.
